A VIOLENT CYCLONE.
Buildings Blown Down and a Number of Lives Lost.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 18.—A cyclone occurred Wednesday night in Cook and Denton counties, Texas. Sallie Prigmore was fatally injured at Staney, Denton county, and several lives are known to have been lost further west. Immense damage was done to crops and farm buildings.
Another despatch from Fort Worth, Texas, says that the storm which did so much damage at Denton Wednesday evening passed on to Cook county and the reports from there are to the effect that it was the heaviest ever known. At Valley View a drug store was moved from its foundation and turned around. Other buildings were badly damaged while fences, orchards and grain stocks were carried away and scattered in every direction. Heavy trees were twisted off and carried away. Several lives were reported lost further west where the storm is known to have assumed the form of a full fledged cyclone.
At Alma two churches were blown down, several farmhouses torn to pieces and one man, Joseph Fairchild, killed.
Many barns and sheds and outhouses in Denton were blown down and a schoolhouse at Staney were completely wrecked. The school had been dismissed, however, and no fatalities resulted. At Pilot Point signs were torn down and carried away, and houses were unroofed. Williams and Newburgh's warehouse was moved by the force of the wind 40 feet from its foundation. Kendall's grain warehouse was unroofed and a large amount of grain was hurled promiscuously about.
Denton and adjacent counties were visited Wednesday afternoon and night by a cyclone, which did great damage. In Denton county the storm demolished the house of Mrs. Prigmore, who with her daughter was buried in the ruins. The mother was fatally injured, the daughter will recover. The residence of Dr. J. W. Ruthenford was blown bodily from its foundation and turned over on its side. The family escaped, having fled to their storm cavin.
At Bloomfield similar damage was done. D. Reilly's dwelling was blown to pieces. The McKenney bridge over Wilson creek was completely wrecked. Gullet's grocery store was badly damaged, the roof being carried off and the building blown in. Corn was laid down and cotton was severely damaged.
In Pleasant Valley the wind was more violent and blew down the Presbyterian and overturned the Methodist church, completely wrecking both.
At Waco, J. C. Shaefer was struck by lightning and will probably die.
The storm is regarded as the most serious ever known in Texas, the damage to crops, it is feared, was very great. Further reports of loss of life are expected.

NEW YORK POLITICS.

Levi P. Morton Offered the Chairmanship of the County Committee.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Very strong efforts are being made to persuade Hon. Levi P. Morton, ex-United States minister to France, to accept the chairmanship of the Republican committee of New York county, to which position he was elected Tuesday night, and which he has since declined. It is known that Mr. Morton wrote a letter before the meeting declaring that he would not accept the chairmanship. It had been represented to him by Republicans that if he accepted the position he would imperil his prospects of succeeding Hon. Warner Miller as United States Senator. The party managers in New York city do not appear to view Mr. Morton's leadership with favor. The same influence that was brought to bear upon him before the committee election is still at work urging him to decline the chairmanship. There is no doubt that the members of the committee almost to a man favor Mr. Morton, but the outside influence appears to be too strong to be resisted.

Horse Thieves Confess.

NASHUA, N. H., June 18—Charles T. Ware and Charles Robbins, who were arrested by City Marshal Hunt and Officer Chase in this city on Wednesday night, on suspicion that they were in some way connected with recent horse thefts, have owned up. They stole a team from W. A. Dudley at Townsend, Mass., and exchanged the horse, a poor animal, for a good horse by robbing Marcus A. Watson of Jaffrey, N. H. This horse is, so they say, in Connecticut. They also stole a valuable turnout at Waterboro, Me., which they disposed of at Springfield, Mass. Ware was discharged from the Concord, N. H., State prison a few months ago, after serving a two years' sentence for the same offence. Robbins is Ware's brother-in-law, and a mere boy. He has been arrested once before, however, on a similar charge. Both responders are in custody, and the officers are in search of the stolen property.

Of Interest to Horsemen.

HAVERHILL, June 18.—The stockholders of the Essex North Stock Breeding and Trotting Association held a meeting in City Hall this evening, and organized by the choice of the following officers. President, Thomas Sanders; vice presidents, H. C. Nevens of Methuen, Harry H. Hale of Bradford, J. R. Huntington of Amesbury, W. T. Putnam of Exeter, and a board of directors and trustees; secretary, E. J. Kenyson, treasurer, B. F. Brickett; Auditor, D. B. Tenney of Haverhill; executive and financial committee, A. B. Priest, J. H. Winchell, C. Howard Poor of Haverhill; F. H. Renton of Groveland.

Gov. Hill Entertained.

BOSTON, June 18.—Gov. David B. Hill of New York was to-day the guest of the Bay State Club.

The Missouri car shop and foundry at St. Louis, Mo., were burned Friday. Loss $150,000.

At Wheatland, Mo., Friday, Marshall Allen shot and killed ex-Marshall Clayton, and was himself killed by friends of Clayton.

Graduating Exercises at Bath.

[Special to the PRESS.]

BATH, June 18.—A thousand people crowded the Wesley Methodist church this forenoon and listened to the closing exercises of the class of '86, Bath High School. The church was beautiful with bunting and flowers properly and tastifully arranged. The class colors, old gold and cardinal were draped behind the broad platform erected for the occasion. Mrs. Rores Rice, Miss Cary and Messrs. Lincoln and Twitchell sang several times and Mr. Harry Duncan of Portland brought from the organ pipes most delightful melodies. He was encored several times. The quartette and organ took the place of the customary orchestra. The exercises were as follows:

*—Excused

The class ode was composed by Miss M. P. Hill. The ladies dresses were exquisite. The gentlemen appeared well and took their parts with becoming earnestness. Of the essayists Mr. D. T. Dougherty did particularly well, while the class parts were delivered in a manner that evinced the wisdom of the class's choice. At the close Principal Cole made well timed remarks. Ex-Principal Hughes in behalf of the class then presented him with a fine gold-headed cane. This evening the class and friends indulged in a "hop", at High School Hall. Thursday they go on an excursion to Mouse Island.

Meeting of Masons.

SANFORD, June 18.—The Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of Maine constituted Springvale Lodge, F. & A. M., at Springvale yesterday afternoon. In the evening Grand Master F. I. Day of Lewiston publicly installed the the officers in the F. B. Church. After the installation William H. Smith, Portland, delivered an able address. The exercises closed with a grand banquet at the town hall. Many distinguished Masons were present from surrounding towns, among whom was Geo. Beacham, Esq., Senior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire.

Fire at Calais.

CALAIS, June 18.—A fire started this morning in a large bed of shingle shavings just above the town of Milltown. The fire department have been hard at work all day to prevent the spreading wind blowing a gale. A small house owned by Charles Kelley was destroyed, loss $500. A dozen others caught and was saved by great efforts of the citizens who turned out in full force. Saw mills and lumber yards narrowly escaped destruction. Reports from up the river say forest fires have started in several places. Unless rain appears soon great damage will probably ensure.

A Child Missing.

BELFAST, June 18.—Elbridge, the four year old son of Mrs. Asa Waterhouse of Searsport, has been missing since yesterday. Search was made last night. To-day 200 people from Searsport and Belfast have been scouring the woods.

Death of a Methodist Minister.

BANGOR, June 18.—Rev. W. W. Marsh, a prominent divine of the East Maine Conference of the M. E. Church, died to-night after quite a prolonged illness.

Funeral of the Murdered Bride.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Winfield B. Thompson, who was shot and killed by her husband in the Sturtevant House last Tuesday, took place today from her parents' residence in this city. It was largely attended by her friends and the street was filled with people. The Rev. Dr. Elder conducted the services, and the interment was in the Cemetery of the Evergreens.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Senator Frye's Bill for the Encouragement of the American Marine Passed.

President Cleveland to Sign the Shipping Bill at Once.

Morrison Much Chagrined at the Defeat of His Bill.

A Great Crowd of People at the Reception at the White House.

[Special to the Press.]

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Senate passed this afternoon Senator Frye's bill for the encouragement of the American merchant marine and to promote postal and commercial relations with foreign countries. This bill allows for the transporting of the mails of the United States between any port of the United States and any foreign port or between ports on the Atlantic and ports on the Pacific, touching at any foreign port, the payment of a sum not exceeding 50 cents per mile each way of actual nautical miles travelled between terminal points, such service to be performed only under under contract entered into by the Postmaster General and the lowest responsible bidder, The ships with which such contracts are made are to be of American register only, and contracts for not more than four years. This bill practically repeals the provisions of the so-called subsidy clause to the post office appropriation bill and will give the House another chance to pass upon it.

The Senate has also passed the bill to pay A. M. B. Hubbard, administrator of the estate of Edward Hubbard, $336.41 for the transporting of mails between Wiscasset and Sheepscot Bridge from Dec. 8, 1871, to Feb. 11, 1873. The bill passed the House March 31st last.

Congressman Dingley called upon the President this forenoon and after some consultation the President agreed to sign the shipping bill at once. Mr. Dingley agreed to introduce a supplementary bill covering some points the President thought not fully covered by the bill as passed by Congress.

Senator Payne's Case.

The Senate committee on privileges and elections held another meeting this morning to discuss the charges that Senator Payne's seat was secured by bribery, but did not decide whether or not to undertake the investigation. Congressmen Little and Butterworth were present and advocated investigation. Further consideration of the subject was postponed until next Thursday in order to give Major Butterworth an opportunity to prepare a written statement.

Fred Douglass' Narrow Escape.

Thursday noon a horse attached to a carriage driven by Fred Douglass ran away on East Capitol street. The carriage struck a colored boy named Frank Myers and fractured his leg. After going a short distance, the carriage upset, and Mr. Douglass was thrown the vehicle and slightly bruised.

Off for the Fishing Grounds.

The North Atlantic squadron is understood to have received orders to sail toward the fishing grounds.

Democratic Proscription.

The National Republican is advised that numerous removals are being made without cause and that the promise to protect soldiers' widows and orphans is a dead letter. It says: The following tracers were dismissed from the architect's office on the 14th inst.: Misses K. P. Dungan of Baltimore, A. A. Carter of Philadelphia, and Mrs. B. Fletcher of this city. The dismissals were without cause and at a time when there was no waiting to be done. The new ones put in are yet scarcely competent to do the work, and draughtsmen who are receiving four and five dollars a day will be obliged to trace their own drawings for a while. Miss Elder lost her father and brother in the Union army during the late war and also had another brother in the service, who was more fortunate and came out alive.

The River and Harbor Bill.

The Senate committee on commerce is proceeding with the consideration of the river and harbor bill very slowly. Petitions are said to have been made which will increase the bill to $20,000,000.

The Adjournment of Congress.

Mr. Anderson of Kansas offered a resolution providing for the final adjournment of Congress at noon on Saturday, July 3d. Referred to the committee on ways and means.

How Morrison Bears Defeat.

Mr. Morrison, although he had anticipated his defeat, showed his disappointment. Last night he had stated that "he knew he was beaten," but he did not seem to know that today, for he gave no notice that he should move again next Tuesday to call up his bill. There were some ten Representatives who did not vote and were not paired. Some, possibly most of them, dodged and it is not probable that Morrison can secure any recruits from them. But he says to his friends it is his purpose to make the protectionist Democrats put themselves on record. He is very indignant, of course, at Randall and his followers, and claims the thirty-three Democrats have betrayed their party and abandoned its pledges as contained in the national platform. But Mr. Morrison does not need to go to Pennsylvania to find traitors to his party. In his own State, both the Democrats from Chicago voted with the Republicans—Lawler and Ward. Mr. Morrison endeavored to keep them in the party traces, but was informed by one of them that in one ward in his district in Chicago there were more Democratic voters than in Morrison's entire district, and that there was not one of those voters who believed in free trade principles. This day's work, perhaps, marks more sharply than ever the division in the Democratic party on the tariff.

Gold coin and bullion	$236,873,856
Silver dollars and bullion	183,386,973

The internal revenue receipts today were $265,985, and the customs receipts, $560,020.

The national bank notes received for redemption today amount to $323,000.

The Shipping Bill.

Representative Dingley of Maine conferred with the President this morning in reference to the shipping bill which had not been signed. The President informed him that the supervising inspector of steam vessels thought that the first section of the bill would not authorize the payment of some of certain expenses of inspectors. Mr. Dingley said it was the intention of Congress to have all expenses paid from the treasury, and suggested to the President that a supplementary bill could be passed to make this clear if it was thought necessary. The President said he would at once sign the bill with this understanding and call attention to the desirability of the legislation desired by the inspector general. The shipping bill will therefore be signed and will become a law tomorrow.

The Assistant-Attorneys Salaries.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Senator McPherson, today, submitted the proposed amendment to the legislative and judicial appropriation bill to provide for six assistant attorneys in the office of the Attorney General, at a salary of $4000 each, instead of two at $3000, three at $2500 and one at $2000, as provided for in the bill as it passed the House.

A Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

The Senate, today, by a two-thirds vote, passed the joint resolution introduced by Ingalls providing for submission to the several States of a constitutional amendment extending the period of the President's term and session of the 50th Congress until the 30th of April, 1889, and substituting the 30th of April for the 4th of March, as the commencement in future of the Presidential and Congressional terms. The measure does not go to the House of Representative for concurrence.

Reception at the White House.

The public reception at the White House tonight was the largest of the kind ever witnessed here. Though the reception was not to begin until 9 o'clock, before 6 o'clock an immense crowd had gathered and taken station in the vicinity of the main doors, and when they were thrown open a closely packed line of men, women and children extended from the main entrance down the carriage way, out of the north gate and east on Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street. There were fully 5,000 persons in line and at 10 o'clock the number had not perceptibly diminished. The President and Mrs. Cleveland shook hands with all as the throng passed through the blue room, and the bride had a bright smile for each one and kind words for those she recognized in the moving crown. The Marine Band was stationed in the vestibule and played at intervals during the reception. As the people left the mansion their conversation was of the beauty and grace of the President's bride.

Indian Troubles Feared.

Commissioner Atkins of the Indian office has received information that serious trouble is feared between the White and Warm Spring Indians at Dalles, on the Columbia river, over the Indians' disputed right to fish in the Columbia at that point.

The Blair Educational Bill.

The House committee on education met today, only to adjourn to the last day of the session. This action finally disposes of the Blair educational bill so far as this committee is concerned. Messrs. O'Donnell and Willis went on record as opposing the adjournment.

XLIXth CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 18.

Mr. Ingall's resolution of yesterday came up, requesting the President to furnish information as to appointments and removals under the civil service law.

Mr. Vance offered an amendment requesting information as to appointments made within the scope of the civil service act between July 16, 1883, when the act was passed, and July 15, 1883, when it went into effect. The resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. Chace offered a resolution calling on the Postmaster General for information as to the amount of additional compensation asserted to be due postmasters and late postmasters under act of March 3, 1883, for payment of which no provision had been made. The resolution was agreed to.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of bills on the calendar on the five minute rule. On reaching the Fitz John Porter bill agreed that it be made a special order for next Thursday.

Mr. Platt's resolution providing for an executive session was objected to and went over.

Mr. Vance's bill to repeal the civil service law was on motion of Mr. Hawley, indefinitely postponed. Yeas 30, nays 26. The senators voting in the negative were: Messrs. Berry, Call, Eustis, Harris, Jones of Nagada, and Vance.

Among the bills passed were the following: The House bill reducing from 8 cents to 5 cents on domestic money orders for sums not exceeding $5; bill to increase efficiency of the army of the United States. (This is Mr. Logan's amended bill from which is omitted the provision in the original bill for the increase of the army which gave rise to so much debate a few days ago.) Bill to provide for the appointment and to fix the salary of the United States judge for the southern district of Alabama, caused some debate and Mr. Logan moved an amendment to the pending bill to make all such salaries $5000 a year. Objection being made the bill went over.

At 4.55 o'clock the Senate went into secret session. At 5.20 o'clock the doors were reopened and the Senate adjourned till Monday next.

HOUSE.

Mr. Belmont of New York, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported back the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill with the recommendation that certain of the Senate amendments thereto be concurred in. The report was agreed to.

Mr. Belmont also reported back the message of the President on the subject of the dedication of the statue of Liberty Enlightening the World, and it was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Mr. Anderson of Kansas offered a resolution providing for the final adjournment of Congress at noon on Saturday, July 3d. It was referred to the committee on ways and means.

Mr. O'Neill of Missouri from the committee on labor reported a bill granting leave of absence to employes in the United States navy yards. It was referred to the House calendar.

Private business having been dispensed with, the House went into committee of the whole on the naval appropriation bill.

The Clerk read the clause beginning on p. 22: Hepburn of Iowa, who severely criticised Mr. Wheeler's speech upon the late secretary of war and declared that he could not tamely submit to have men who were embalmed in the hearts of their countrymen and who rose to honor was revered, derided in such a manner. He gave way to Mr. Kelly of Pennsylvania, who read the following letter from Mr. Stanton, to the Rev. H. Dyer, under date of March 18, 1862:

Your note of the 11th has remained unanswered because of a pressure of business which left me neither time nor strength to respond. When General Curtis failed to obey the order of the President to move against the enemy, given October 1, I thought he would be removed upon the spot. Nearly a month's time was lost by his disobedience of these orders when his creatures and those who are enemies of the country undertook to apologize for his conduct by the false pretence that he needed supporters that they were held from him by the war department. My duty to the country required the exposure of the falsehood and demanded a report on the subject from the general in chief. It was not my fault that he was relieved before the New York election after his disobedience of orders. In respect to any combination by Chase, Seward and myself against General McClellan it is utterly false for reasons not necessary to mention. Fire and water would as soon combine. Each could do his own work right. In respect to the imputation of selfish or ambitious motive a denial is needless. Those who make the imputation are ignorant of my principles of action or with prejudiced feelings and like all other public men I must expect and patiently bear misconstruction and false report. In respect to the present condition of affairs, all I can say is that the whole power of the government is being put forth with much more vigor and I think more earnestness on the part of the military commanders than at any former period. Treason is encouraged in the Northern States by a just discontent of the people. But believing our national destiny is as immediately in the hands of the Most High as ever were the children of Israel. I am not disheartened but full of hope. For myself, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left, serving no man and at enmity with none I shall strive to perform my whole duty in the great work before us; mistakes and faults no doubt I may commit but the purpose of my action shall be single to the public good.

The reconsideration of the naval appropriation bill in the committee of the whole. Mr. Boutelle of Maine supported the general features of the bill, though he said that during the five minute debate he would have occasion to criticise the particular provisions.

Mr. Goff of West Virginia attributed the present deplorable condition of the navy to the idotic policy of appropriation by Congress and denied that it was the result of extravagant expenditures by former secretaries of the navy.

Mr. Sayers of Texas, defended the action of the Secretary of the Navy in connection with the "Dolphin" and criticised the reports of the advisory board, the members of which, he said, if rightly dealt with would be laboring an indictment for an attempt to connive at fraud upon the government. He charged that Secrecary Whitney had shown that John Roach, by the aid of Secretary Chandler and the advisory board had abstracted for the government the neat little sum of $180,000 in violation of the terms of the contract.

After other brief remarks the bill was read by paragraphs for amendments.

After completing the consideration of one-half of the bill the committee rose and the House at 5 o'clock took recess until 8, the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills.

At the evening session the House passed 26 pension bills.

Mr. Wallace of Louisiana, took the House to task for the small attendance at the night session and gave notice that on next Friday night he would demand a quorum.

The House at 11 o'clock adjourned.

A CONSPIRACY.

Master Workman Powderly Exposes a Conspiracy Against the Knights of Labor.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A despatch from Philadelphia says: A great deal of excitement was caused here this morning by the publication of a circular from General Master Workman Powderly. It was sent secretly to those whom it most concerns. It is designated to prevent the packing of the general convention in Richmond next October. The circular reads: A member of the order, employed by a wealthy corporation, places the following letter in my hands. It is printed in circular form, and the presumption is that similar letters have been placed in the hands of other "trustworthy" men. The name of the firm sending out the document is withheld, in order to shield the member to whom it was sent. It is quite evident that the sender of the document did not know that the recipient was a Knight of Labor. The letter of instruction reads:

[CONFIDENTIAL.] Dear Sir—You have been named as a reliable, trustworthy man in whom confidence can be placed. You have it in your power to confer a lasting benefit upon your employer and at the same time advance your own interests. We wish to know something concerning the secret workings of the Knights of Labor. You are urged to join that body and become thoroughly informed upon the minutest details of the management. If you can secure an election as delegate to the annual conclave of the Supreme Assembly of that order, it will be gratifying to those who furnish employment to you. If while acting in the capacity of delegate you secure the passage of radical or revolutionary legislation, we will not regard it as being inimical to our interests. If after your admission to the Knights of Labor you succeed in initiating the most prominent local politicians of your neighborhood, regardless of party, we will feel that you are working in the interests of your employers. We feel that having thrown out these hints, you will at once place yourself in communication with those who will secure for you an election to the association named. We have given the key note to future action and will expect a faithful performance of the duty on your part. Should you be discharged for any action you may take in the labor movement your time will go on.

Respectfully yours.

Mr. Powderly then continues: "Let the word go along the line, from district assembly to the newest recruit, to put none but Knights of Labor on guard at the next general assembly. Scan well the characters, the records and the abilities of those who will go to Richmond in October. Send no politicians there. Send no creatures of corporations there. Send no member there who would shamefacedly whisper something about treason on the constitution of the Knights of Labor. Send no members there who will not pledge to vote for the best men for the positions to be filled. Send no members there who will not promise to do their part to enact just laws, and to demand obedience to them when passed. Send no men bers because of their fine speech or oratory. Remember the warning: Put none but Knights of Labor, true and tried, on guard at Richmond."

AN INSANE MAN'S DEED.

He Shoots a Man and Then Kills Himself.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., June 18.—At 11 o'clock this forenoon as Col. J. W. Strong, manager of the Herald, was sitting in his counting room with his back to the door, Dr. S. A. Richmond entered and drawing a revolver fired one shot which struck his victim in the left side of the neck. Col. Strong jumped up and staggered towards a back office. Richmond fired two more shots and Strong fell. One of the bullets struck him in the neck ranging upward into the brain, the other struck in his back and is believed to have penetrated his heart. He died five minutes after the first shot was fired. Richmond then turned and walked outside and some 20 feet from the door placee the revolver to his temple, fired, and dropped instantly to the sidewalk. It is not known whether the wound will prove fatal or not. It is believed, however, he will recover. Richmond has been hopelessly insane for some time. Col. Strong leaves a widow and three children, the eldest of whom is managing editor of the Herald.

PORTLAND PUBLISHING CO.,
PORTLAND, ME.

It is now denied that Col. Morton has got an office.

Mr. Morrison isn't satisfied with one defeat. He courts another. There is not much doubt but that he will be accommodated.

According to a Portland dispatch to the Boston Herald, the Democrats think they have found a man foolish enough to run against Congressman Reed in the person of John A. Hammond of South Berwick. Mr. Hammond used to be a Greenbacker.

Five postmasters who owed their appointments to his influence appeared as "workers" at the convention that has just renominated Congressman Holman. After the great objector had been nominated he regaled the crowd with a tirade against civil service reform. A Republican has just been turned out of the New York custom house for having been an offensive partisan fifteen years ago. The public will watch with considerable curiosity to see how much worse it is in the eyes of the administration to have been a Republican offensive partisan fifteen years ago than to be a Democratic offensive partisan to-day.

The Halifax Chronicle, the organ of the Nova Scotia Liberals, says the next step in the programme of the Secessionists will be to endeavor to get the governments of New Brunswick and Prince Edward's Island to join with Nova Scotia in withdrawing from the upper provinces. The interests of the maritime provinces are indentical and none of them have any natural trade with the upper provinces. The Chronicle believes that they can all be made to take the same view of secession as have the Nova Scotians. But whether New Brunswick and Cape Breton joins her or not Nova Scotia proposes to go in the way she has begun and ask the Queen to seperate the province from the confederacy.

A Belgian of considerable reputation, De Lavelye by name, suggests a permanent court of arbitration between England and America. But arbitration has been very unpopular in England since the Alabama award, and to the ears of American fishermen the word brings up unpleasant memories of the body that gave the five millions to Canada for her fish. Nevertheless, if the present dispute cannot be settled by treaty, it must be by arbitration; for there can hardly be war. But hardly disputes enough arise between this country and Great Britain to demand a permanent court of arbitration; though undoubtedly there are foreigners, and among them some Belgians, who would like a place in such a court, and therefore think it a necessity.

Just at the time of the unveiling of the Webster statue at Concord another monument to the genius of Daniel Webster is recalled to attention by the death of the man who prefixed to a collection of the statesman's great speeches an admirable essay on "Webster as a Master of English style." Edwin P. Whipple, the well known author and critic, died at his home in Boston Wednesday evening, at the age of 67 years. He was of Revolutionary ancestry; and his mother, Lydia Gardner, belonged to a Maine family distinguished for mental force. Bred to commercial life, he showed at an early age a fondness for literature, and no mean abilities as a writer. In 1843 an essay on Macaulay, which Mr. Whipple published in the Boston Miscellany, drew from the great English essayist an appreciative and complimentary letter. Since then, as a lecturer, critic and essayist, he has filled a large place among American men of letters. Mr. Whipple was a member of the famous Saturday or Literary Club, over which Dr. Holmes presides, and of the Thursday Evening Club.

FALSE TO ITS PLEDGES.

The fate of Mr. Morrison's tariff bill furnishes new evidence that the Democracy are hopelessly divided on every question except that of the offices. On that they are a unit. They all believe that the offices belong to them. But on everything else they are split up. There are hard money Democrats and soft money Democrats, Democrats who believe that the coinage of the silver dollar should be stopped, and Democrats that believe it should go on; Democrats that believe in economy, and a good many more Democrats that persist in practicing extravagance. At the beginning of the session of Congress the rules of the House were changed so as to give the majority full control of legislation. Any measure on which they could not unite they could take up and pass. More than six months have elapsed and not a single one of the promises that were made in the last Democratic platform has been redeemed. The currency is in precisely the same chaotic state it was six months ago. Silver dollars which the people have no use for are piling up in the government vaults at the same old rate. No progress has been made in the work of rehabilitating the navy. Instead of the economy which was promised we have the most lavish appropriations for years. And now to cap the climax the House containing a majority of forty Democrats, refuses to even consider the questions of tariff reform. What a beautiful record this will be for the party to go to the people upon this fall—a record of pledges habitually violated.

GLADSTONE'S CAMPAIGN.

Yesterday Mr. Gladstone, in his seventy-seventh year, opened the campaign at Edinburgh, the heart of his old constituency of Midlothian. In spite of the infirmities of age he has arranged for a contest, the labors of which would daunt a much younger man. Were he any other man the prophecy that this will be his last campaign would be safe; that it will be the most trying ordeal of his long career as a statesman there can be no doubt. The history of England for the last half century is a chronicle of reforms won in struggles of which Mr. Gladstone has been a prominent, often the one prominent figure. He has become accustomed to stand on the borders of the untried land, which stretches before every statesman of constructive genius; and guided by his judgment and instructions the people of England have not yet failed to emerge upon happier prospects. But in every other exodus Mr. Gladstone has had by him leaders who could aspire to be his rivals. He has had on his side the wealth and prestige of the old Whig families; the sturdy good sense of the great middle class; the eloquence and statesmanship of hereditary legislators. If ever his spirit quailed at the difficulties before, if ever he grew sick at heart lest his judgment might be incorrect, he has always had those around him, who, by ability and position, were competent to assure him. But in this campaign the situation is entirely different. The noble families of England have withdrawn their support. It was even impossible for Mr. Gladstone, when he formed his last cabinet to find a lady of sufficient rank who would take the post of mistress of robes to the Queen; so that office was put in commission. The middle classes, too, who have heretofore been a tower of strength to the Liberals, are arraying themselves on the side of Mr. Gladstone's opponents. A few prominent aristocrats, like Lord Roseberry and Earl Spencer, and several leaders of brilliant abilities, like Morley, remain; but in the chaos into which the political parties of Great Britain have fallen, the leaders of influence and ability have very generally gone against home rule. There remain, then, to support the great premier in his most difficult undertaking hardly more than the rank and file of his party. They, it is said, follow Mr. Gladstone's lead implicitly. An illustration of their devotion is furnished by a London gentleman who has just returned from a tour in Wales. A Welsh Conservative told him as he stood by the sea that "if Mr. Gladstone walked in and was drowned the people would follow and get drowned also." A Radical Welshman who was asked whether his fellow Radicals would vote against disruption, answered that they understood nothing about it; that "if God Almighty were put up here against Gladstone, Gladstone would head the poll." The situation may be entirely changed before the campaign is finished; but at present it is Gladstone and the people against the field. Of the hearty sympathy of the masses he is assured, as the ovations which have greeted him in his journeys attest.

CURRENT COMMENT.

MILITARY ARDOR.
Lewiston Journal.

So great is the desire of Maine's young soldiers to go into camp at Bangor, that many of the companies have suddenly grown to their full size and not enough uniforms can be found to supply all the recruits.

NATIONAL RESOURCES.
Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

It must be a source of pride to the royalists of Bavaria to think that they had a second lunatic held in reserve for King Otto, now the monarch, always was an unmistakable fool and madman.

UNPLEASANT FOR THE EDITORS.
Fairfield Journal.

The editors of Democratic papers in Maine, who have not succeeded in inserting their snout in the government trough, are expected to defend and make popular those fortunate gentlemen who have been honored with a fat office, in the coming campaign.

LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There is cause for regret, of course, that the Republican candidate for Governor of Oregon was beaten; but a Republican Congressman was elected, nevertheless, and the party needs Congressmen now a good deal more than it needs governors.

A SUGGESTION.
Springfield Union.

The Boston Post seems to think the Democrats can find a candidate for governor without taking Gen. Butler. How would Eben F. Pillsbury do? His nomination would be a strong and handsome indorsement of President Cleveland, and that is what the Cleveland men seem specially anxious for.

THE THIRD PARTY AND MR. DINGLEY.
Biddeford Journal.

When so-called temperance men assemble in convention, as they did in Portland yesterday, and denounce so able and tireless a temperance worker as Nelson Dingley, Jr., conscientious voters, with a leaning to third-partyism may well call a halt. Either he is an imposter or his defamers are impracticable cranks. It is only necessary to place his public record against theirs to determine which is the genuine and which the spurious reformer.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

What's To Be Done? a Romance by N. G. Tchernychewsky, translated and published by Benjamin R. Tucker, Boston, and A Vital Question; or What is To Be Done? by Nicolai G. Tchernuishevsky, translated from the Russian by Nathaniel Haskell Dole and S. S. Skidelsky, are two versions of the same book by different translators. This romance, the last work and only novel from the pen of Tchernychewsky, appeared in 1863 in a St. Petersburg magazine, and was written during the author's confinement in a St. Petersburg dungeon, prior to being sent into exile in Siberia, where he still remains with ruined health and shattered mind, the present Czar refusing the innumerable petitions for his freedom. The Russian Nihilists are said to regard the present work as a faithful portraiture of themselves and their movements. The fundamental idea of Tchernychewsky's book is that woman should not be the slave of man, but treated as his equal; and that the marriage system should be purified and made sacred. It is a cry for liberty from the crushed Russian reformer, and whatever may be thought of his theory of the solution of this "vital question," there can be no doubt, as one of the translators says, "of the intense moral purpose of the author." And it would be a mistake on the part of the reader to consider that he counsels "free love," in the ordinary acceptation of the term. The unsettled state of the labor question is discussed by Tchernychewsky, who feels sure that co-operation is to be the great system of the future. The characters of this remarkable novel are all drawn from life: Kirsanof is said to represent Professor Sheortch of St. Petersburg, and Viera Pavlovna still lives. The book was suppressed by the Russian government as soon as it appeared, on account of its too liberal tendency; but it has had a powerful influence with the people.

Both translations are excellent; but in that of Messrs. Dole and Skidelsky the constant introduction of words in the Russian language has the effect of confusing the mind of the reader. This occurs so often as to be a great drawback to the pleasure of reading. For example, "and you, says her mileuki; that is her husband." Why not say husband in the first place? Again, "An ex-student (studentisha) &c" Why to us explain in Russian the meaning of an English word? Then comes "as svednaya" good-by. The effect is distracting; and we turn with a sense of relief to the strong smooth English of Mr. Tucker. Although in other respects we have nothing but praise for the other translation.

Old Salem. By Elinor Putnam. Edited by Arlo Bates. (Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co. Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.) The sad cutting off of a literary career which opened so brilliantly lends a pathetic interest to our admiration for the charming papers contained in this little volume. The introduction by the husband of the writer is inexpressibly tender and touching, as is the dedication: "For the son, too young to remember her, have been gathered together these fragments of his mother's work, broken by death. The first three articles in this little collection appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, where they attracted much attention. To them has been added Two Salem Institutions, and My Cousin, the Captain." There is an unspeakable charm in these reminiscences of Old Salem, and the quaint, curious and musty relics of humanity and bric-a-brac, of customs and costume, are reproduced by the pen of Mrs. Bates with exquisite skill and fidelity.

The bright and interesting volume of Mrs. Kate Tannatt Wood is unfortunately named. That Dreadful Boy gives us terrible visions the Bad Boy of Peck; and even the additional information on the title page that it is an American novel does not fully reassure us. We beg that our readers will overlook the name and accept the substance, which is excellent. The book is not for boys, but rather for parents, and contains much that is thoughtful and useful. It is the history of a bright and attractive boy, who having lived through the period of "dreadfulness" which is supposed to attack all youngsters as inevitably as measels, chickenpox and whooping cough, becomes a blessing and a comfort to his friends and family. Mrs. Wood evidently loves and appreciates youth; and has much sympathy for the exuberan vitality of the enfant terrible.

The Transfiguration of Christ. By Frank Wakeley Gunsaulus. (Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.) This is a very thoughtful book, and one of positive value and freshness. Mr. Gunsaulus treats his subject in a scholarly manner, and with a reverence and originality that will appeal strongly to all whom his theme may attract. The chapters forming book are: The Nature and Method of Christian Thinking; The Time of the Transfiguration; The Place of the Transfiguration; The Transfigured Christ; The Appearance of Moses; The Appearance of Elias; Jesus Only; and The Transfiguration and the Resurrection. This work is of the best school of Modern Orthdoxy.

Lyrics of Life. By John Grosvenor Wilson. (New York: Caxton Book Concern. Limited. Presented by the Frank Mayo Co.,) These verses, by the co-author of Nordeck, possess a good deal of genuine merit, and belong to the better class of lyric poetry. They are pure in tone, delicate, in expression, and have a musical ring that catches the ear at once. From the Ballad of Love's Grief we quote the "Envoy:"

"Day springs from night, from mold the roses grow,
From hearts of fire are formed the tranquil spheres;
Therefore put trust in recompense, although
The smiles of Love are fewer than the tears."

A Village Sketch and Other Poems. By Charles G. Fall. (Boston: Cupples, Upham & Co.) This is a pretty little volume, in dainty dress, containing a series of poems of various merit. At least the author's intention is excellent, and if we cannot quite see his reasons for following Mr. Wegg's example and "dropping into poetry," the fault may be in our own lack of taste and judgment.

The Secret of Her Life. By Edward Jenkins. (New York: D. Appleton & Co; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.) This writer, so well known as the author of Ginx's Baby, has produced a clver and entertaining novel in The Secret of Her Life." The incidents are not highly probable, but the style is racy, the characters are well drawn, and the story has all the elements of popularity.

Perdita and Other Stories. By Ella Wheeler Wilcox. (New York: J. S. Ogilvie & Co.) A collection of readable sketches by the author of Poems of Passion, which includes Dave's Wife. "This is," says the writer, "my very best story."

WIT AND WISDOM.

Young Reporter—"The storm king hurled his torn and tumbling towers into the ruins of the broken and dismantled edifice."

Old Editor—"What's that? What do you mean, young fellow?"

Young Reporter—"I—er—er—the flood washed away Patrick McDougal's old soap factory."

The most perfect regulator for a bilious condition is Dr. Soule's Pills.

"Where are you going to pass your vacation this summer?" asked one of his friend Smith, who is a cashier in a bank.

"I haven't decided yet."

"Why don't you go to Montreal? You'll"—

Jones says now that he cannot understand why he should be vexed and leave so abruptly, just at such a kindly suggestion.

Do not suffer from Sick Headache a moment longer. It is not necessary. Carter's Little Liver Pills will cure you. Dose, one little pill. All druggists sell them.

"Mamma said I must 'muse you," said a little Chicago girl to her mother's guest; "you's a stranger here, ain't you?"

"Yes; I never was here before."

"Does you see that man in a blue suit?"

"Yes."

"That's a nigleman. You see that iron thing by him?"

"Yes."

"That's a lamppost. An' that quee"—

"Oh! we have all them at my home."

"Have you? Why I thought you came from St. Louis."

Palpitation of the heart, nervousness, tremblings, nervous headache, cold hands and feet, pain in the back and other forms of weakness are relieved by Carter's Iron Pills, made specially for the blood, nerves and complexion.

"Well, Bobby," said young Featherly, as the former entered the store, "what can I do for you this morning? And how is everybody up at the house?"

"All right, I guess. I heard sister Clara tell ma that she dreamed about you last night."

"Is that so?" whispered Featherly, bending over the counter. "And what did your mother say?"

"She said that Clara must have eaten something what didn't agree with her. I want to get a spool of number 60 cotton, and a dozen collar buttons."

"Quincy troubled me for twenty-years. Since I started using Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil, have not had an attack. The Oil cures sore throat at once." Mrs. Letta Conrad, Standish, Mich.

One of the best things said by the late Emery Storrs was at a meeting of prominent Chicago citizens to raise funds for the Dearborn Park Library and Art Gallery. Some one remarked that he did not believe the enterprise would ever pay. "I want Chicago," exclaimed Storrs, "to rise to that eminence where it can do something that won't pay."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites is especially valuable for children. Thos. J. R. Frayser, Memphis, Tenn., says: "I regard Scott's Emulsion as a valuable medicine for the diseases of adults, for infants teething and sickly children."

A young lady about to be married, being on friendly terms with the clergyman who was to perform the wedding ceremony, made him promise that on her first Sunday at church after her marriage he would preach an appropriate sermon. The promise was given, and on the Sunday appointed he preached from the text from Psalms: "And there shall be abundance of peace as long as the moon endureth."

Now the Girls want to put on the Gloves with us.

Probably no one thing is so general among our female population as nervous exhaustion, and nothing is so productive of unhappiness and anxiety as nervousness, which seems to be more prevalent in America than in other countries. It can hardly be accounted for, as the more care we have, over them, the worse they are. One unmitigated scoundrel said, "They are playing it on the men to get close attention," which pleases the boys as much as the girls. Now, the women have struck a new lead. Since the druggists have introduced the luscious Moxie Nerve Food, that nerve nervous exhaustion and gives a woman double endurance, the little dears want to put on the gloves with us.

To see how much it can do on the nervous system, a board of physicians in Lowell, Mass., have been given it to some old helpless cases of paralysis. It recovers all cases caused by nervous exhaustion, and has no effect on those caused by effusion, inflamation, or disease. It recovered Angus Bell, living at 130 Broadway, Lowell, who had been utterly helpless twenty months, though otherwise well, aside from emaciation. A Mrs. Hulme has nearly recovered from a complete paralysis of both the muscular and sensitive nerves of the left side. This kind of paralysis has never been known to recover before.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

"I would say to my friends, and all who chance to read this, that I have used Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam in my family for a long time, and consider it a very valuable medicine. It cures when all other remedies fail; and I would cheerfully recommend it to those afflicted with coughs, colds, asthma, etc.

Charity Kindergarten.

The question, can a charity kindergarten be sustained in Portland, can best be answered by asking another. Are there in the city fifty ladies who will each subscribe, or be personally responsible for $20, this being the price of tuition for a year for one pupil, Persons who are willing to become contributors are requested to report to Miss Ella Sargent, 148 Spring street, or to Miss Abby Norton, 73 St. Lawrence street, as soon as possible. If sufficient encouragement is given, plans will be at once perfected for opening a charity kindergarten early in October. In opening a summer kindergarten, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is but following the precedent established in other cities, of caring in a practical way for some of the many children who cannot leave the city during the summer months. Should a yearly charity kindergarten be established, the W. C. T. U. will endeavor to supplement its work in the future by continuing a summer kindergarten.

Maine Medical School.

There has recently been received at the Maine Medical School, at Brunswick, a set of casts and models consisting of every organ and part found in the human body. They were made in Germany especially for this school, by the orders of F. H. Gerrish, the professor of anatomy, and are without doubt the finest models of the kind in this country. They are plaster casts made from frozen sections and dissections, showing all the viscera and their relations, and are colored as we find them in the living subject. By the aid of these casts the student can see just the relation of one part to another, which is of great advantage in his work. The casts number sixty-four and will add much to the Museum of Anotomy. It is to Prof. Gerrish that the school owes its thanks for the enterprise in obtaining these specimens. The lecture course closes at Brunswick, Wednesday, June 23.

Mr. Kelly says he could not afford to comply, as his business was not prosperous, but as soon as it was he would. Then a committee of the Knights of Labor waited on him and demanded that the discharged men should be restored and weekly payments made. Mr. Kelly said he wouldn't restore the discharged men and wouldn't agree to make weekly payments, but would pay the men at the end of their day's labor. Obituary.

Dr. Joseph Addison Parsons died at his residence in Windham on the 6th inst. He was born in Parsonsfield, Me., in 1815, and was the last of a family of sixteen children. It seems fitting on this occasion that some public expression be made of one so well and favorably known. As a physician he was widely known and continued in active practice till about twelve years ago, when from feeble health he was obliged to abandon it. Although not an aggressive practitioner, he was safe, honest and a good counselor. To his brother physicians he was kind and generous; a firm friend of the younger members often cheering them in their dark, discouraging moments. That his helpful words, pleasing stories and hearty laughter have given to many a sufferer new lease of life, there is abundant testimony from his former patients.

By his death, his family loses a kind and devoted husband, and the community an esteemed and honored citizen. Dr. Parsons possessed many traits of character which make the great and good man; honesty, benevolence, charity and kindness were inherent in his nature. Void of selfish motives in his fellowship with others, social and genial in the extreme, he was the friend and companion, well worthy the esteem and remembrance of all.

He was a pioneer in the cause of freedom; one of the few who, when it was quite unpopular, openly by word and vote, opposed slavery; one, through whose efforts and example Windham and the adjacent towns took advanced action against slavery in the early period of its agitation. The temperance cause also has received his unqualified support.

Whatever tended to elevate society and place humanity upon a higher level received his aid and approval. His private and public acts were governed by strong convictions of duty, and not from hope of office or emolument.

After an intimate acquaintance of about fifty years with him, the writer can truly say, as can many, that an honest citizen, a kind neighbor and a true friend has left us. We regret our loss, yet the remembrance of his many virtues will cheer us onward to noble aims and purposes in life.

North Gorham, Me., June 15, 1886.

His mother, who saw the animal, says it is as large as a calf. It is thought by some of the older citizens of that vicinity to be an American cougar, as when about to seize its prey it crawls on its belly, or assumes a fawning appearance.

WASHINGTON.

One of the station laborers at Calais shot a robin last week. He was promptly fined $7 and costs.

Work has been commenced on a Soldier's Monument for Machias. It will be built of Hallowell granite, and the expense will be met by the Ladies' Society, that has been accumulating funds for the purpose for several years.

YORK.

Most of the old operatives have returned to work in the shoe factory at South Berwick, and matters go on much as usual, though the wages of many of the operatives in the stitching room have been cut down.

It is said that the mineral apatite has been found in considerable quantities in Shapleigh.

IN GENERAL.

The apple trees in this State are showing some strange freaks this year. The tree in Limington which has been reported as bearing a large blossom like a rose, has been outdone by a tree in the yard of ex-Mayor Holmes of Ellsworth. Growing on the branch of the tree was, to all appearances, a full-blown white rose of usual size. It is rather past the season of apple blossoms, and on the same tree are an abundance of little apples.

The Pittsfield Advertiser says that Mr. E. W. Clark of Dexter discovered on a Duchess of Oldenburg tree in his orchard, several of these huge blossoms, besides many buds. The blossoms are nearly two inches in diameter.

Miss Georgia Jewell, daughter of John M. Jewell of Clinton, picked another of these flowers from a crab apple tree a short time ago.

Delays are Dangerous

The time to take a medicine is when nature gives her first warning. That tired feeling is often the forerunner of serious disease, which may be warded off if you attend to yourself in time. Don't wait till your system is all run down and you are obliged to stop work, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will purify, vitalize and enrich your blood, create an appetite and tone the digestive organs, cure headache, billiousness and dyspepsia, rouse and regulate the liver and kidneys, and give strength to the whole body.

That Tired Feeling

"I never took any medicine that did me so much good in so short a time as Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was very much run down, had no strength, no energy, and felt very tired all the time. I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had used one bottle felt like a different person. That extreme tired feeling has gone, my appetite returned, and it toned me up generally. My brother and sister have also received great benefit from it." CLARA W. PHELPS, Shirley, Mass.

New Life and Energy

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me a very great deal of good. It has built up my general health, given me a regular appetite, and made me full of new life and energy. The scales on my face with which I have suffered many years are so much better that I feel well paid for taking the medicine." MARY ATKINSON, Summerfield, Pa.
